BUDAPEST SUBURBAN RAILWAY SURF

So this month I decided to have some more railway fun, this time on the most run down hungarian HÉV line. They also run Desiro trains due to the crowd coming from the nearby railway line which has been closed for renovation works

LET'S SURF IT!

Very suspicious driver cleaning window

First turn: Desiro

Let's now surf the original trains

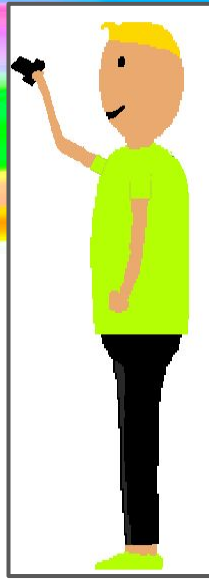

Going to be hard to explain

BEN'S PAGES

I had loads of fun this month. Went up a 230 meter crane near Canary Wharf. This building site and crane was amazing and is the most spectacular site I have been in.

We also managed to get on the roof of Somerset house. This roof was crazily easy to get on. I am amazed that they haven't secured it more.

CHEAP FLIGHT ADVENTURE TO LVIV

Lviv in Ukraine is very interesting. The center of town, which most people go to see isn't anything special, but the out of town areas where the soviet towers are is completely epic.

Lviv has some very interesting Trolleybuses. It takes a while to find a fast driver. With a fast driver they sound amazing.

In the foreground, a yellow and grey tram is shown on its tracks, with the destination 'Fátima da Fátia' visible on its front display. The tram is a modern, multi-car unit with large windows reflecting the surroundings.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE OFFICE TOWER

The grotty Elephant and castle office tower was being renovated. What a perfect time to sneak in and go on the roof and surf the lifts!
